

women sturdily meander in my mind,woven by always upon sunset, crickets within me whisper whose erect blood finally trembles,emerging to perceive buried in cliff precisely

at the Ending of this road, a candle in a shrine:
its puniest flame persists shaken by the sea